SATURDAY, JULY 21, 1894.

This week's shipments of gold have amounted to $3,300,000, $1,500,000 having gone out on to-day's steamers.

The American Glue Company, with a capital of $1,300,000, has been organized in Pittsburg for the purpose of controlling the glue market. Many similar combines have gone to pieces but there ought to be no trouble in this glue trust sticking together.

The Pullman Palace Car Co. declared, yesterday, its usual quarterly dividend of two per cent. on its $36,000,000 of capital stock. The dividend amounts to $720,000 so that in spite of Mr. Pullman's oft repeated assertions that there is no money in building cars at present rates there must be big money in running cars at old rates.

George Gould is at last satisfied that the Vigilant cannot beat the Britannia in light winds. He is not discouraged, however, but will keep on sailing against the Britannia, hoping from stiff winds such as favored the Vigilant at Bangor. He has ordered for the Herreshoffs, a yacht lighter than the Vigilant, with which, next season, he expects to be able to sail away from the British yachts in even the lightest breezes.

The Committee on Preamble in the Constitutional Convention has approved the proposed amendment forbidding any statutory limitation on the value of a human life when the determination is left to a jury. The law now limiting liability for the death of a human being was passed at the instance of railroad corporations and it has long been one of the law's absurdities that a life was less valuable than an injured leg or spine and that it was often cheaper to kill a man than to maim him.

Edward Albert George Andrew Patrick David Christian are the names with which the infant son of the Duke of York has been afflicted. Each name has a special significance. Edward Albert are the names of the infant's grandfather, the Prince of Wales; George, Andrew, Patrick and David are the names of the patron saints of England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales, and Christian is the name of the youngster's great grandfather, the King of Denmark.

As was to be expected Mgr. Sattoli's decision sustaining Bishop Waterston's anti-saloon letter, which is, in effect, that no Catholic should be engaged in the liquor traffic, has aroused the indignation of Catholics who are engaged in the liquor trade. On the other hand, the ruling gives the greatest satisfaction to the strong temperance element in the Romish Church, and is accepted by them as the beginning of a reform which will, before many years, free the church from what they have long regarded as a grave reproach.

RECORDER'S COURT.

A Young Man Fined for Fighting on Sunday—Arrested for Using Threatening Language.

Edward Madden, an eighteen year old boy, was arrested, last evening, for fighting on Sunday, at the East Main street depot.

A. V. N. Powelson, Esq., who appeared in his behalf advised him to plead guilty and asked the mercy of the court on account of the respectability of the boy's family and the fact that he was about to leave town to go to work in another State.

After giving the boy some good advice, the Recorder let him off with a fine of ten dollars, which his father paid.

Peter VanLeuven was arrested on complaint of Mary Masten, with whom he had been living for the past five years, on a charge of disorderly conduct, and using threatening language.

A revolver was placed in evidence as having been taken from the prisoner by a special officer, but the defendant denied this and claimed another man gave the pistol to the officer.

The preliminary hearing, this morning, was adjourned to secure the attendance of witnesses, but VanLeuven's case was not in any better shape, this afternoon, and he was convicted and sentenced to Gothen jail for thirty days.

THE VIGILANT'S LUCKY DAY.

Sailing Away from the Britannia Over the Kingston Course.

By United Press.

KINGSTON, Ireland, July 21.—The Britannia and Vigilant competed in their tenth race, to-day, for a prize valued at $300. The course was the same as that sailed yesterday, fifty miles. The weather at the beginning of the race was showery, with a good northwest wind.

The Britannia crossed the starting line seventeen seconds ahead, but the Vigilant soon overhauled her, and was one minute and forty seconds ahead at the second mark.

At the end of the first round the Vigilant was four minutes ahead.

The wind subsequently dwindled to a very light breeze, which was favorable to the Britannia, and while the Vigilant lay almost becalmed the Britannia came up with her. At this point the breeze strengthened and the Vigilant pulled away, winning by about two minutes.

CONFEDERATE BRIGADIERS.

They Are Rapidly Passing From the Arena of National Politics.

The men who engaged prominently in the military and civil service of the confederacy are rapidly passing from the arena of national politics. Below is a record of such as are still in active life in Washington:

The senior United States senator from Alabama, John T. Morgan, was a brigadier general in the Confederate army, and for other service, James L. Pugh, was a member of the Confederate congress. Hon. Joseph Wheeler, who attained the rank of Lieutenant general in the Confederate service, has for 12 years been their representative in congress from the Eighth Alabama district.

The senior senator from Georgia, John D. Gordon, was likewise a Lieutenant general in the army of the confederacy.

The Hon. Edward C. Walthall of Mississippi, a major general in the Confederate service, and of late the junior United States senator from his native state, while not in active politics, having resigned for the balance of his present term in the upper house, has been elected for and is confidently expected to take his seat in that honorable body in March, 1895.

The senior United States senator from Missouri, Francis M. Cockrell, was a brigadier general in the Confederate army, and the other senator from that commonwealth, George G. Vest, held positions in both houses of the Confederate congress.

The present senior United States senators from both North and South Carolina, Matt W. Ransom and M. C. Butler, were major generals in the Confederate service.

The representatives from Tennessee in the upper house of congress are Isham G. Harris, the senior, and William B. Bate, who is the junior senator from that commonwealth. The first mentioned was a war governor of his native state, and the last named was a major general in the Confederate army.

And, lastly, Eppa Hunton, who saw service as brigadier general in the Confederate army, at present occupies the position of junior senator from Virginia in the congress of the United States.

Thus do we perceive that of the multitude of those who distinguished themselves in the military and civil annals of the confederacy only 12 remain in national halls upholding in the present, as they strove to do in the past, the rights and interest of the section of which they are the honored representatives. —Augusta Chronicle.

It is very hard and very adhesive; it does away with the warping and shrinkage of doors and sashes, and the building is not saturated with water, as it necessarily must be when common plaster is used; it costs originally but little more than lime plaster, and in the end its superior qualities make it immeasurably cheaper; it saves waiting several weeks or months for the buildings to dry out; it does not crack or fall off, even in the case of leakage; it is applied easily by any good plasterer; it is the only material which repairing can be done neatly and to stay.

THE BENTON AVENUE MATTER

The Railway Company to Begin Contention Proceedings—Rumors of an Injunction in Reserve.

There was a new turn in the matter of the proposed construction of an electric road through Benton avenue, last evening, when notices were served upon parties owning property upon that street that application will be made before the General Term of the Supreme Court in September for the appointment of a commission to condemn the street for railroad purposes.

This of course means that the Benton avenue line will not likely be opened until after the meeting of General Term, but we are inclined to believe that all the same Middletown people will ride to Midway Park on electric cars long before the session of the General Term.

It is quietly whispered about that in anticipation of the railway company attempting to go through the avenue, the parties opposed to the road have secured another injunction, which is being held ready for service at any time it may be needed.

TWO WRECKS ON THE O AND W

Train 34 Runs Off a Switch and Blocks the Tracks—A Rear End Collision at Cook's Falls.

The O. and W. had two mishaps, yesterday, but escaped luckily in both cases.

The first occurred at Parkville, in the afternoon, when train 34, in attempting to take a switch, to get out of the way of train 2, jumped the rails and blocked the track, delaying No. 2, three and a half hours.

The other accident occurred about midnight, near Cook's Falls. Train 35, was taking water when train 37, ran into the rear of the train. The engine of train 37, and four cars of train 35, were badly damaged and the track was blocked for some time.

It is fortunate that in neither of the accidents nobody was hurt.

AN INVITATION ACCEPTED.

Waalkills Will Go to Ellenville on August 9th.

At a special meeting of Waalkill Engine Co., last evening, it was unanimously voted to accept the invitation of Pioneer Engine Co. to be their guests at the annual parade of the Ellenville Fire Department on August 9th.

The department has arranged for a clambake in the evening after the parade, and a big time is anticipated by the Waalkills.

Meeting of Hamilton Council, O. A. F.

At the meeting of Hamilton Council, Order of American Firemen, last evening, it was decided to change the date of regular meetings to the third Monday in each month.

Mr. Geo. E. Gillen was elected delegate to the State convention, to be held at West Point in October.

E. J. Maxsey, of Monhagen, was elected a member.

Seven new members will be initiated at the next meeting.

The council is in a very flourishing condition. The membership has increased to that point that the council now pays a death benefit of $200.

A Surprise for the 24th.

The wives, sisters and friends of the members of the 24th Separate Company have arranged a pleasant surprise for them on their return home, this evening. They took possession of the Armory, this afternoon, and have spread a bountiful collation for the soldier boys to whom "home made victuals" will be very welcome after a week of camp fare.

Waalkills to Give a Lawn Party.

Waalkill Engine Co. at its special meeting, last night, decided to give a lawn party on the vacant grounds adjoining the engine house on Wednesday evening, August 1st, and also voted to extend an invitation to Pioneer Engine Co., of Ellenville, to be their guests on that occasion.

The Latest Electric Railway Project.

The latest electric railway project is a line connecting Port Jervis and Newton, running by way of Deckerstown and Rutherford Lake. So far the scheme is only talked about, but it may take definite shape before long.

A New Jersey Gold Mining Scheme.

A Stroudsburg dispatch states that a company proposes to dig for gold at Budd's Lake, N. J. An analysis of ore and dirt has shown $60 of gold to the ton, and the search will begin this week. Gold was discovered there about two years ago and it has taken the time since then to raise enough funds to get at work.

THE 24TH'S LIFE AT CAMP

NOT SORRY THAT THE WEEK'S TOUR OF DUTY IS OVER.

Newburgh Excursionists Visit Camp—More Compliments for the 24th—Visitors from Middletown—Presentation to Capt. Chase—Arrangements for the Trip Home.

STATE CAMP, PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Friday, July 20.

Our last day of duty in camp. Some of the boys regret that the tour will close, to-morrow, but the majority are satisfied with the work they have been called upon to perform during the week and are ready to return home.

Yesterday afternoon an excursion arrived in camp from Newburgh, and many of our boys met old friends. Mrs. W. S. Jones, wife of Corporal Jones, was the only Middletowner in camp. The excursionists remained until 9 o'clock, which gave them ample time to witness the evening parade and to enjoy the band concert.

The Middletown papers have not arrived regularly for some reason. There has not been a night when all three have been received.

TO DAY'S DRILLS.

This morning's drill was devoted to the company in extended order. The forenoon drill was the battalion in close order, in command of Lieutenant Harding and Col. Merriam, of the 7th Infantry U. S. A. Blank cartridges were used.

The 24th continues to lead at all drills and the compliments continue to pour in. All this in spite of any reports in the New York papers as one of our contemporaries has insinuated. There are no special reporters on duty here except one United Press reporter and several scribes from Buffalo and Poughkeepsie.

Lieut. Easthead was ordered back to camp, to-day, by Gen. Porter, and he arrived at an early hour, this morning.

VISITORS IN CAMP.

To-day we have in camp with us City Treasurer Walter Knapp and Capt. Rockwell of the electric road. The latter was on the field during battalion drill, this morning, and was much interested in the evolutions of the soldiers. He goes into camp at Gettysburg with his company in August.

Captain McIntyre is acting as Officer of the Day, to-day.

PRESENTATION TO CAPTAIN CHASE.

After dress parade the members of the 24th invited Captain Chase, who is acting as Major in command of the battalion, and his company, into our street, and Captain McIntyre presented him with a handsome incense burner in behalf of the company. Private J. F. Dusenberry was detailed to go to New York, to-day, to purchase it. The presentation proved to be one of the most interesting and enjoyable events of the week.

OUR HOME COMING.

The company has received orders to leave camp to-morrow about 2 o'clock, and will take the Central road at 3:15, at Roa Hook, crossing the Hudson at Garrison's to Highland Falls, where we will take the O. and W. for Middletown, arriving there about 6 o'clock.

Mrs. Smith, mother of Private A. J. Smith, arrived in camp this afternoon. Mr. Smith left for home Thursday morning, and Mrs. Smith went to Middletown on the Night Line.

The boys have had several pictures taken during the week, by the numerous photographers who haunt the grounds, and several of them are excellent.

INCIDENTS AND HAPPENINGS IN GOSHEN.

Bobby Broadhead's Aggregation Beaten—An Improvement—Death of a Little Girl—"Jolly Dozen" at Greenwood Lake—Personal Notes.

From our regular correspondent.

—Bobby Broadhead's dusky base ball aggregation went to Florida, yesterday, and was defeated by a score of 15 to 12. Bobby lays his defeat to his having made the mistake of leaving his mascot rabbit foot behind him.

—Theodore Smith, the grocer, has been putting a large, handsome granite stepping stone in front of his place of business, for the accommodation of the public.

—The young daughter of John Ackerman, of Green street, who has been reported as very seriously sick, died last night. Funeral private.

—About twenty members of the second edition of the "Jolly Dozen," went to Glenmere last night. Of course they had a good time.

—Kenton Egbertson, clerk in Millpaugh's dry goods store, is spending a week's vacation in Jersey City.

—Harry Mills left for Harrison, N. J., this morning, to again assume the duties of station agent there. He has fully recovered from his late illness.

IN ANCIENT GOSHEN.

A Visit from Sneak Thieves—Another of Our Village Elms Gone—Other Local and Personal Items—Concerning Deserted Houses.

From a special correspondent.

—People should watch their houses a little on band concert nights. A house in this village, was entered by a sneak thief, on Thursday evening, and various articles of apparel and all the family umbrellas taken. The thief, evidently thinking that a fair exchange is no robbery, left his own head covering in exchange for that of the master of the house.

—Another of our village elms, a large one in front of St. James' Church, has fallen a victim to the elm worms and was cut down, yesterday.

—Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Vail and daughters have been enjoying a trip through Canada.

—Miss May Lewis, of Troy, N. Y., is visiting her cousin, Mrs. H. C. Duryea, at her home, in this village.

—Mr. Thomas Evans, of New York, is the guest of his cousins, the Misses Grier, at their home on South street.

—One cannot help but be struck, when driving through the country in this vicinity, by the number of deserted houses one sees. There is not a much more melancholy spectacle than an uninhabited house slowly falling into decay. A house is like the covers of a book that conceal from the eyes of the world the stories of the lives they shelter; and the idea that within those ruined walls human beings have lived and loved, laughed and wept, been born and died, cannot but lend them a certain dignity and interest.

Those crumbling stairs have been worn by innumerable footsteps. The uncertain foot of infancy, the joyous eager one of youth, and the trembling, weary one of old age, all have left their impression there. From those vacant, gaping windows, bright faces once looked forth and on those cold hearthstones cheerful fires cracked and sparkled. Who can tell how much of happiness or of misery that broken roof once covered? Only the covers of the book are left, the leaves have all been torn out and we cannot tell whether the story was a tragedy, a comedy or, like most stories, a mixture of the two.

—By the way, judging from old-time fiction, what dreary times our ancestors and ancestresses must have had and how hard they apparently took life. In so many of the old novels the heroine is "dissolved in tears," at least every chapter. With all this wear and tear on a heroine, the "melting" and "dissolving," it must have been difficult to make her last through the conventional three volumes. It may be more prosaic to live in the latter half of the nineteenth century, but it is infinitely more cheerful.

SUCCESS WITH SUMMER BOARDERS

means attention to little things. A great deal depends upon the table, not merely the abundance of the food, but its quality, the skill with which it is prepared and the neatness and taste with which it is served. Then comes the question of dessert. It is the dessert which leaves the most lasting impression. A dish of good Ice Cream is relished by almost everyone, but the Ice Cream MUST BE GOOD. Above all the Flavor must be perfect. Don't use poor Flavors at any price. The palate is quick to note an insult of this kind. It is the Flavor which makes or mars the Ice Cream. McMonagle & Rogers' Pure Extract Vanilla makes the Ice Cream a success every time. For many years it has been the favorite with the best housekeepers in America. It is sold by the best grocers from Maine to California.

A Personal Card.

The present year, 1894, is the 27th year of my business career in the once village of Middletown, now a young and flourishing city.

During this period of 27 years I have endeavored to serve the public in an upright manner, and with integrity of purpose. The RESULT, either financially or in general, whether a success or a failure, can only be determined by comparisons and in considering the ups and downs of a long business career, and including the various changes of a city, state and country.

The 27 years show and bring to mind many great changes.

Capt. James Cox very appropriately said to me, on Monday morning last, that "he had to go to the cemetery to find his friends." But ringing these changes are not very pleasant thoughts for the present generation—and I will only add a few words of gratitude for the many kind favors, as well as the forbearance for many shortcomings.

For the summer months I will give my personal attention to all the details of my Middletown business, being in New York as usual Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, for the purpose of serving my patrons.

All new goods will be placed on our counters daily.

My purchases abroad will be ready early in August and September; in fact, a line of new Scotch CAPS have already arrived in bond, and will be on sale in two weeks.

The first shipment of LINEN HANDKERCHIEFS will be ready Aug. 1st and Linen Housekeeping Goods about Sept. 1st.

My purchase of Linen Goods, for our syndicate, amounted to over 3,000 pounds or $15,000, to arrive in August, September and October, of which due notice will be given.

The Human Electrical Forces!

How They Control the Organs of the Body.

The electrical force of the human body, as the nerve fluid may be termed, is an especially attractive department of science, as it is so marked an influence on the health of the organs of the body. Nerve force is produced by the brain and conveyed by means of the nerves to the various organs of the body, thus supplying the latter with the vitality necessary to insure their health. The pneumogastric nerve, as shown here, may be said to be the most important of the entire nerve system, as it supplies the heart, lungs, stomach, bowels, etc., with the nerve force necessary to keep them active and healthy. As will be seen, the entire nerve system is supplied by the descending from the base of the brain and ascending to the head, while the numerous branches supply the heart, lungs and stomach, each with necessary vitality. When the brain becomes in any way disordered by irritability or exhaustion, the nerve force which it supplies is lessened, and the various organs receiving the diminished supply are consequently weakened.

Physicians generally fail to recognize the importance of this fact, but treat the organ itself instead of the cause of the trouble. This noted specialist, Franklin Miles, M. D., A. B., has given the greater part of his life to the study of this subject, and the principal discovery he has made is that the principal cause of nervous diseases is the over-activity of the brain and nerve force, which is prepared on the principle that all nervous and many other diseases are caused by an over-activity of the nerve centers. Its wonderful cures of all these disorders is testified to by thousands in every part of the land.

Restorative Nervine cures sleeplessness, nervous prostration, dizziness, hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs. It is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid.

AN INLAND SEAPORT.

DULUTH THE MUNICIPAL MARVEL OF THE LAKE SUPERIOR REGION.

The Town Renowned Famous In 1871 by Proctor Knott's Matchless Sarcasm Has Just Laid the Cornerstone of a $350,000 Board of Trade Building.

Two hundred and five years ago a French naval officer named Jean du Luth visited the region bordering upon the western end of Lake Superior. He was greatly impressed with its natural beauties, and he wrote enthusiastically concerning them in his letters describing his travels in the wilds of the new world.

Du Luth's enthusiasm was richly merited, for this world affords few more beautiful land and water scapes than those of the Lake Superior region. He was almost as greatly struck by its resources as by its comeliness, and in this he was also justified, but it took mankind a long time to utilize them. In 1860 there were but 71 white inhabitants at the spot where Du Luth pitched his chief camp and which received the name of its chief white visitor, and there were but few more when in 1869 it was decided to make it the eastern terminus of the Northern Pacific railroad. But the dormant energies of the place were only awaiting the magic impulses that follow the advent of the iron horse. In 1870 Duluth had a population of 2,131 souls, of whom 1,565 were of PROPOSED BOARD OF TRADE BUILDING foreign birth. In 1878 the number had grown to 5,000, and the increase has been practically constant ever since, albeit there have been occasional reactionary lapses following periods of over-booming. When the cornerstone of the new Board of Trade building was laid the other day, the town had for years passed the experimental period, as is evidenced by the fact that the contracts for the structure call for the expenditure of $350,000.

It is not so very long ago that the claims of those who foretold a great future for Duluth were laughed to scorn by those who had not properly considered them. The most famous piece of fun poking in connection with Duluth was the speech delivered in January, 1871, by Hon. J. Proctor Knott of Kentucky, then a member of the house of representatives at Washington. The occasion of its making was a resolution for the extension of the time allowed for the completion of a railroad to the young city, and the address was such a masterpiece in its way as to attract the attention of the entire civilized world. It was during this speech that Mr. Knott dubbed Duluth "The Zenith City of the Unsalted Seas." His words embodied the most extravagant but sarcastic prophecies as to the future of the town, but they made Duluth famous and actually helped its progress amazingly. They also established Knott's reputation as the wit of the house.

It has been often stated that the speech was really written by that agile-penned promoter, P. Doman, with the intention of assisting the Duluthian boom, and it has been pointed out in support of the story that Knott never after delivered a similar speech. Those who know him best say that there is very little probability that Doman was the author of his address, and those who are familiar with Doman's style agree with them. Mr. Knott's speech was not bespangled with such profusion of polysyllabic gems as Doman's productions always show, and in manner and phraseology it was similar to many after dinner addresses that have been delivered by the Kentuckian. The reason he has never delivered another similar public speech is believed by his friends to be in the fact that he realized that he had made the mistake of his life in allowing the comic muse to dominate him when on the floor of the house.

Duluth's indignation because of this attack was intense at first, but it vanished as soon as it was seen that the effect was good and not bad. In 1890 the Kentuckian was made the guest of the city. A public reception was held in the daytime, and in the evening there was a grand banquet, at which he was the chief speaker. He then embraced the opportunity to take everything back, and his remarks were received with the utmost enthusiasm.

The Duluth board of trade was organized in 1881 by nine business men. A handsome building was put up in 1885 at a cost of $115,000, including site. In February this structure was destroyed by fire, and the site, which cost $10,000 in 1885, would now sell readily for $30,000. There are not many towns in the United States in which real estate values of 1891 are so much higher than were the values of 1885. The membership of the Duluth board of trade at the present time is 185. Last year the wheat receipts aggregated 22,910,000 bushels, the flour receipts, 6,970,000 barrels, 2,085,000 cwt. which were ground in the local mills. The wheat shipments for 1893 were 13,700,000 bushels and the flour shipments, 4,900,000 barrels.

The harbor of Duluth is now visited by sailing vessels that make their way thither through the St. Lawrence, the great lakes and the Welland canal. It was at Duluth that the first whaleback boats, the "harrying craft of the future," were first built.

Gentlemen:—Your Book and sample bottle came duly at hand. We have used the Food almost exclusively since the birth of our son, who will be three months old on the 25th inst. and is in good health. We pronounce it excellent, and will recommend it to all mothers of the breast. The healthy condition of our little one surprises us all; we cannot do without it. With best wishes for the success of your Food, I thank you for the interest in our baby we are.

Gentlemen:—Mellin's Food gives the best satisfaction. I would not be without it.

Yours respectfully, Mrs. J. GATES.

Brooklyn, N. Y.

Gentlemen:—Just one year ago I received a notice from you inviting me to try a sample bottle of your famous food. We were blessed with a new arrival, a girl, we tried the Food, and have continued to use it ever since. If the baby did not use it, it might be said, it would not be the mother's milk, and so the child received it all the time. The baby is now a year old, and is healthy, strong and temperate, and is not out of the name, viz., an angel. No other child of my acquaintance has been so healthy. I discovered them by feeling them, because she has not shown any outward sign, the best of my mother, by crying.

Yours respectfully, E. E. ANGELL.

93 Carlton Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Dear Sir:—I have tried other kinds of Food, but none seemed so agreeable as Mellin's Food. The baby has thrived well with the breast milk.

Yours truly, Mrs. C. W. JAMES.

HER LAST HALF YEAR

A Chicago Woman Who Is Passing Her Last Six Months of Her Life.

Heroes do not always die in battle-fields. We all know that, but when the truth of the statement is exemplified in a manner that is so touching, it is almost impossible to believe. One evening there came to the room where I sat a beautiful girl, fully attired. Her eyes were naturally brilliant, and in her face there flamed a color like a star. I recognized her at once as a well-known and highly successful girl in one of Chicago's public schools, here was something about her appearance that surprised me, for here upon the occasions when we had been together, she had been so plain, so shabby, so poor, so that I had been able to say the plainest of the plainest, of her attire, her rich velvet of the cap, the world the feathers on her elegant hat had me to exclaim:

"Why, how have you looked? What have you done?"

"Death!" was the answer. "The doctors have told me that I have an incurable disease, and cannot possibly live longer than six months. I have scrimped myself all my life to save money to buy land, cultivate my mind. I am there with all that. Now I am going to have a hand at the material job as well as a half year to live, I'll tell you."

Since that time has wasted rapidly, but the room is full of flowers and the girl is full of beauty. The gowns she wears, creations of beauty, and she allows nothing nor any allusion to her former presence. She faces death with absolute heroism that makes one it to applaud rather than to weep. Her manifestation is not so grand the manifestation of moral courage, but there is something about it which makes the blood tingle. —Chicago Herald.

When Baby wick, we gave her Castoria.

When she would, she cried for Castoria.

When she was Miss, she clung to Castoria.

RAILROAD KING AND LABOR LEADER.

John M. Egan and Eugene V. Debs, Rival Leaders in the Great Pullman Struggle.

The great Pullman railway boycott has drawn a good deal of attention to the opposing leaders in that controversy—namely, John M. Egan, president of the General Managers' Association, and E. V. Debs, the head of the American Railway Union. Both of these gifted generals are comparative strangers to the general public, although Mr. Egan has long been favorably known to railway officials, and for some years Mr. Debs has been conspicuous among labor leaders.

Mr. Egan was born in Springfield, Mass., March 26, 1848. He moved to Illinois when a boy and entered the Illinois Central railway shops at Aubrey as an apprentice. In a short time he worked his way into the clerical department and at 19 was a clerk in the freight department. He was transferred to the engineer's department, where he received rapid promotion. In 1877 he accepted the office of chief engineer of the Southern Minnesota railroad and was subsequently promoted to the superintendency of the system. He next allied himself with the Canadian Pacific and personally superintended the construction of that road from Winnipeg to the Pacific coast. In 1881 Mr. Egan became general superintendent of the St. Paul, Minneapolis, and Manitoba railroad, and in 1883 assumed the general management of the Chicago, St. Paul and Kansas City. In 1890 he was elected president of the company and resigned the position last April to devote his whole time to the General Managers' association, of which he is president.

JOHN M. EGAN.

EUGENE V. DEBS.

Eugene V. Debs was born in Terre Haute, Ind., 39 years ago. He received a common school education, and at 16 began work as a painter in the Vandalia railroad shops. Later he spent three years as fireman on the same road. He was then chosen city clerk of Terre Haute, served two terms, and when only 26 years of age was elected to the state legislature. While in office he secured the passage of several bills in the interests of labor, and his speech in nominating Daniel Voorhees for United States senator gave him a wide reputation as an orator.

On leaving the legislature Mr. Debs was made grand secretary and treasurer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, an office he filled very acceptably for 14 consecutive years. He organized the United Order of Railway Employees, a federation of railroad men, but it was short lived. He then conceived the idea of the American Railway union, which he organized in 1893.

THE NORTHWEST INTERSTATE FAIR.

There Will Be Six Big Buildings and Many Attractions at Tacoma.

The exposition fever has struck the far west, and as a result the Northwest Interstate fair will open at Tacoma Aug. 15 and continue for 10 weeks. It is designed to be an attractive advertisement of the thriving states of Washington, Oregon, Montana and Idaho, the great territory of Alaska and our neighbor of the great northwest, British Columbia. Within 100 miles of Tacoma 800,000 people have their homes, and 800,000 dwell within 400 miles of the city; consequently, even if the fair depends upon local visitors exclusively, which it will not, the attendance is sure to be large.

Of the six great buildings forming the main features of the exposition, the largest is the Manufactures and Fine Arts building, which was formerly the property of the Western Washington Industrial Exposition company. It is 280 feet wide, 300 feet long and three stories high, and will contain the manufactured products and works of art from the exhibiting states and territories. The auditorium will hold 30,000 people. The other large structures are the Mining, Fisheries, Agricultural, Horticultural and Forestry and Live Stock buildings. Many of the exhibits to be displayed were on view at the World's fair.

One decidedly unique feature of the fair will be a huge wigwam 200 feet high, which will be devoted to exhibits illustrating the life of the red man in the northwest. Around the wigwam will be the camps of Indians representing the different tribes of the northwest and the Pacific coast.

Another odd feature of the fair will be an exhibit showing the vacant government land in the different states subject to entry, so that would be settlers may take in the situation at a glance. The fair will not lack popular features. There are to be a Ferris wheel on a small scale than the big one at the World's fair, an electric tower, a waterfall, a fountain, fireworks at night, military and naval contests, a tournament of firemen and athletic sports of all kinds. The president and general manager of the fair is Henry Bucky.

SHOTS HERE AND THERE

AN "ARGUS" MAN OFF DUTY AIMS AT SEVERAL SUBJECTS.

No Question About Their Being Dead—The Slot Machine an Old Contrivance—Queer Music at a Wedding or How an Organist Got Even.

Dr. D'Arsonville, of the French Academy of Sciences, asserts that electrocution, as practiced in this State, does not kill but merely produces syncope and asphyxiation, from which recovery by artificial respiration is possible. The French doctor is way off. Every poor wretch who has sat in the electrical chair is dead. As soon as the current of electricity was shut off the doctors have cut the law's victims open and, after examining the heart and other internal organs, have certified that the men were dead, and that ought to settle it.

An English periodical has made the discovery that the slot machine is an old contrivance. Hero, of Alexandria, who flourished 117-81 B. C. describes a sacrificial vessel, which flowed only when a coin was dropped in it. The coin when it passed through the slot fell on one end of a balanced horizontal lever, which, being depressed, opened a valve and a libation was poured out to the gods. This, however, does not prove that "that there is nothing new under the sun." The ancients would never have dreamed of converting a sacrificial vessel into a gambling device that would throw dice and shuffle poker hands and do it so successfully as to win for the house nearly every time.

The absent-mindedness or malice of the organist of the Methodist Church, at Northport, L. I., relieved a marriage service, Sunday evening, of a great share of its solemnity. The usual Sunday evening service had been concluded by the singing of the doxology, but the announcement that a young couple would be united in matrimony at the altar, caused the congregation to keep their seats or crowd for those from which a better view of the tying of the knot could be obtained. After the usual brief period of expectation and neck craning, a whispered buzz announced the approach of the bridal party.

Dominie Saunders stood erect at the altar rail and Miss Lavina Brown, the organist, climbed upon the bench and awaited a nod from the pastor as a signal to strike up. The signal was given, but instead of the wedding march the strains of the doxology came pouring from the organ. The congregation scowled and smiled alternately and all eyes were turned upon Miss Brown, who apparently unconscious of her mistake, put her whole soul into execution. The bride paused timidly as she entered the door and looked inquiringly into the face of the proud young farmer whose arm she held. His indifference was reassuring and she vainly tried to keep step with the painful strides he was taking to keep time with the music. Dominie Saunders nearly had a fit. He snapped his fingers, stamped his feet and shook his head, but still "Praise God from whom all blessing flow" pealed from the organ. The merriment over the antics the groom was making to keep the step was in a degree modified out of sympathy for the blushing bride, but the congregation wore an expression of extreme good nature. At last the altar was reached and, wholly unconscious of her blunder, Miss Brown seated herself to witness the ceremony. She did not interpret the dagger glances which the pastor shot in her direction. The ceremony was performed without further incident and Miss Brown again mounted the organ bench to play as the bridal party and congregation left the church. Her selection this time was a medley of church hymns, including the popular "What shall the harvest be?" Miss Brown professes that it was all the result of thoughtlessness, that she was so intent on the ceremony that she did not realize what she was doing, but her explanation "don't go" and the general belief is that she was squaring accounts with the bride.

The Huckleberry Crop a Failure.

The Shawangunk mountain huckleberry crop is a dead failure. Buyers for the New York market, who in good season pick up from forty to fifty crates a day, now get but seven or eight. Prices to pickers are from seven to nine cents a quart. Scarcely any huckleberries are to be found in the Middletown market and dealers say that they cannot get them.

Discharged for Lack of Evidence.

Adams and Mahoney, the two young men arrested in this city, on suspicion of having broken open a car of liquor in Port Jervis, were discharged, yesterday, because no evidence could be found against them. They are from Dakota, bound east, and officers seeing them board train 171 inspired at the conclusion that they had committed the robbery.

MIDN.

MURRAY—At Liberty street, in this city July 21, '94, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. (Union) Murray, born in this city, died at the conclusion that they had committed the robbery.

WANTS THE EARTH

Practically Prohibitory Conditions of a Railway Franchise.

The borough of Stroudsburg, Pa., has consented to grant a franchise to the Delaware Valley Electric Railway Co., provided the company will macadamize the main street from curb to curb to a depth of eighteen inches, repair all streets through which the road runs, when dug up for the purpose of tapping water mains, etc.; that the company light all streets used by it with electricity, shall remove all snow from the streets within 24 hours after falling, that it shall handle no freight or coal, and shall pay a license of $10 per car.

If all the other towns along the line of the proposed road exact such conditions as Stroudsburg requires, it will be a long time before electric cars are run between Port Jervis and Stroudsburg.

SOME SNAKE STORIES.

Condensed from the Columns of a Reliable Port Jervis Contemporary.

The Port Jervis Gazette is just now fairly reveling in snake stories. Among those published, yesterday, are the following, which we condense from the originals:

A young lady walking along Main street nearly stepped upon a huge rattler, which was sunning itself on the sidewalk. She screamed and a man came out and killed it. The snake had nine rattles and was four-and-a-half feet long.

Miss Lillian Hommel, a Vassar student, who is summering at the farm of Levi VanEtten, on the banks of the Neversink, started down cellar, Thursday, when a big black snake jumped from a shelf and ran down stairs. Delia Meehan, a domestic, hearing her screams, got an axe, went to the cellar and chased the snake until an opportunity occurred to chop it in two. It was five feet long.

From a Deckertown young lady the above mentioned paper learns that the hired man on Eri Wilson's farm, near Hamburg, while repairing a fence a day or two ago, started to look for a snake. He saw one lying on the top of the fence, which, although apparently charred by fire, would answer his purpose. He attempted to pick it up, but was startled by the cold, clammy feeling, and then saw that it was a blacksnake. The reptile showed no disposition to fight and seeing its distended stomach, he concluded it was enjoying a siesta after gorging itself and proceeded leisurely to kill it. This snake was eight feet long and as large around as Sandow's arm. Three half-grown rabbits had furnished its dinner.

A young lady while walking in Laurel Grove Cemetery, a day or two ago, was startled by a hissing noise close to her head and was horrified to see a large snake coiled on the top of an evergreen bush. The snake showed flight, but the young lady didn't.

A Horse's Awkward Predicament.

From the Wantage Recorder.

Horses sometimes get themselves twisted into some peculiar shapes, but seldom in a more awkward predicament than a young horse belonging to Richard Hill, of near Libertyville, did last week. Mr. Hill was drawing hay with his young team, when one of them began to rear and plunge, and in some unaccountable manner got both forefeet over the neck yoke. There was some difficulty in getting him out of the scrape but he was rescued unharmed.

That Tired Feeling

Is a dangerous condition directly due to depleted or impure blood. It should not be allowed to continue, as in its debility the system is especially liable to serious attacks of illness. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the remedy for such a condition, and also for that weakness which prevails at the change of season, climate or life.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, carefully prepared from the best ingredients. 25c

WHAT OUR NEIGHBORS IN SULLIVAN COUNTY ARE DOING.

All the News from All Parts of the County—Many Matters of Interest Condensed from Our Sullivan Exchange and Contributed by Wide-Awake Correspondents.

—The General Term has affirmed the decision of Judge Smith, rendered at the February term, quashing the indictment against ex-Sheriff B. W. Winnier.

—Charles S. Starr, of Monticello, has secured control of the lake known as "Dutch Pond," one of the most beautiful lakes in the country, and is organizing the "Mountain Lake Club of Sullivan County," to develop the property into a summer resort.

—Anthony Comstock, special agent of the Society for the Suppression of Vice, is a guest for the summer season at Towner villa, Monticello.

—The Watchman says that as a result of the hot, scorching wind of July 13th, the leaves of pear and other trees are blackened and blighted.

—James H. Conkling, a veteran, living three miles from Livingston Manor, fell, a few days ago, and broke both bones of one of his legs.

—The Emmonsville acid factory, which shut down on the 1st for thirty days, started up on the 12th.

—C. W. Chapin has begun to clear the ground for the first of three large dams, which he proposes to construct on Black Lake brook. The lakes thus formed will be a feature of his game park, which includes 3,000 acres. The fence that encloses it lacks 680 feet of being eleven miles long. The fence consists of thirty strands of barbed wire, and is eight feet high. The park is stocked with deer, elk, Belgian rabbits and wild game. Ex-Sheriff Decker is superintendent of the property, and has a force of ten or fifteen men constantly at work.

WAWAYANDA

Effects of Wednesday's Great Storm—A Big Hay Crop—Oats a Poor Crop—Rank Growth of Corn—Personal and Other Notes.

Correspondence Angus and Mercury

—Wednesday's storm was very severe in this town. The lightning flashes were very vivid, and the high wind broke down and uprooted many trees, knocked quantities of fruit from the trees, and tumbled hay in the fields around in all sorts of shape. A big chestnut tree near the Slate Hill district school house was blown down. A large limb from an elm tree fell across the telephone wire near the school house, interrupting communication between Middletown and Port Jervis. A cow belonging to Miss Jane Austin, of near Ridgebury, was struck by lightning and killed.

—On Tuesday last, Mr. S. S. Tooker, of Middletown, and his nephew, J. Fletcher Vail, of New York city, made a flying visit to the residence of Prof. Tooker. Mr. Vail occupies the responsible position of weigher in the New York custom house.

—Farmers are still "busy as bees" gathering in their hay crop. A few have finished. The crop is generally good throughout the town, a little above the average. There was scarcely a hay stack to be seen last year; this year, barns are filled and many haystacks have been made. But according to the old rule, "plenty of hay plenty of winter to use it up."

Other signs of a tough winter are abundant foliage on forest trees and great length of blackberry vines. A person who came from Middletown, Thursday, states that four times as much rain fell there during Wednesday's shower as fell in this town.

—Owing to the blight caused by some parasite, the oat crop, this year, will be quite inferior.

—The corn has already attained a larger growth than is usual at this time of year. Some splendid fields of corn can be seen in this town.

—Now is the proper time to sow turnip seed.

—Now is an improper time for young men to "sow their wild oats." Better to put that business off indefinitely.

—The two oldest men in this town are Hon. Erastus Stickney and Tunis Wood, each of whom is between eighty and ninety years of age.

—The musical whistle at the type factory is a genuine screecher three times a day.
